THE OLIVE TREES OF PALESTINE

Miss Sana Teaches 2021

Palestine has some of the world's oldest olive trees. Some olive trees in Palestine are hundreds, even thousands, of years old!

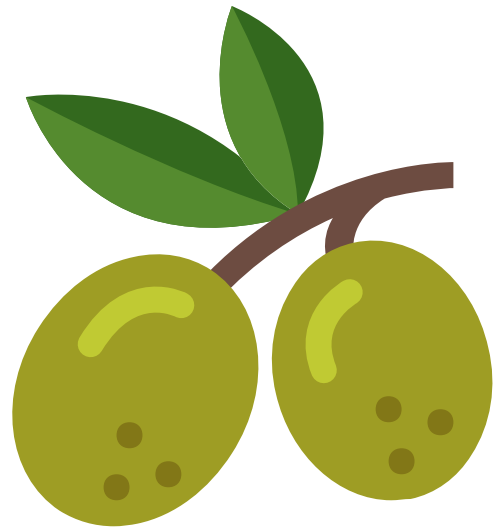

In Palestine, there are about 10 million olive trees.

Palestinians are very proud of their olive trees. Many Palestinian families have olive trees that are passed down from generation to generation.

Palestinians take great care of their olive trees and work hard to harvest the olives.

Miss Sana Teaches 2021

Each year in October, Palestinian families come together and take part in the olive harvest.

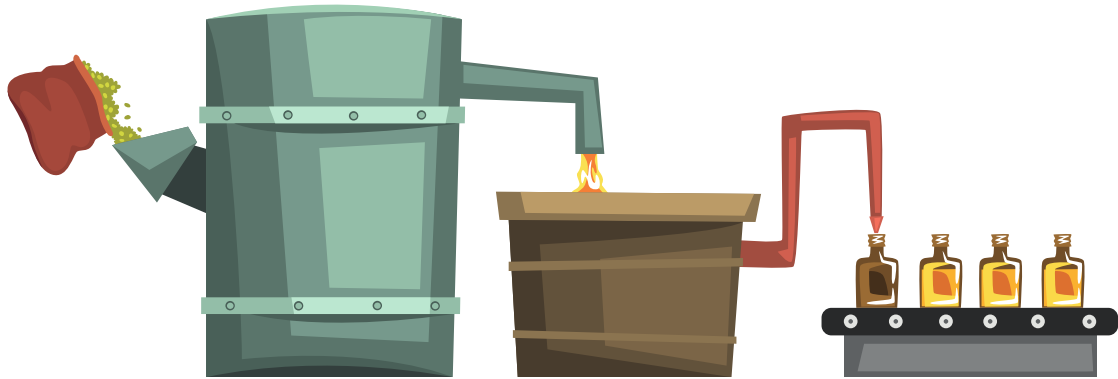

This is a very special time. The harvest is about gathering as a family and enjoying the results of hard work.

Families often take a break from harvesting and have a picnic under their trees. They share food and drink tea.

After picking all of the olives from the olive trees, families collect their harvest and take them to a local mill. Here machines will sift, wash and press the olives until they turn into oil.

Some families might sell their olive oil. They might also keep some oil for themselves and give some to friends and family.

Miss Sana Teaches 2021

Although most of the olives from the harvest are used to make olive oil, some of the olives are used to make soap, pickles or are kept for eating.

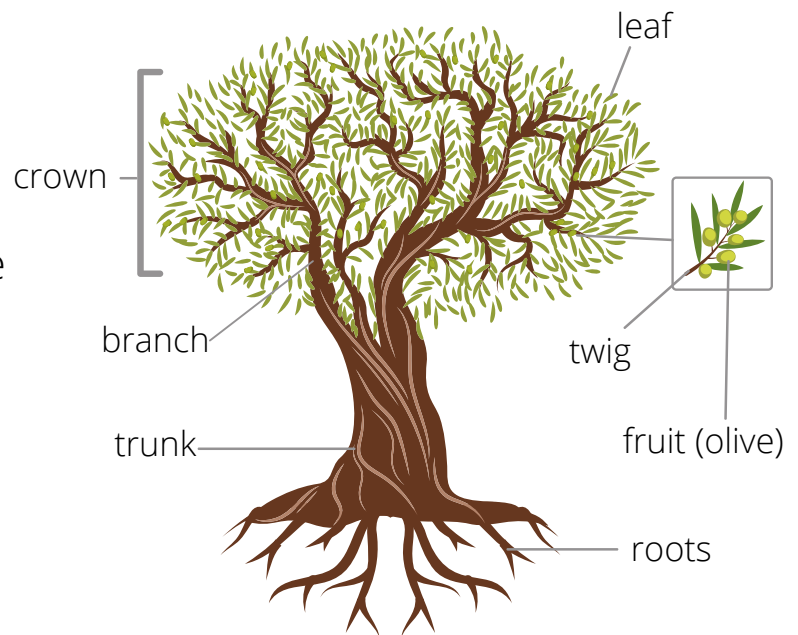

Miss Sana Teaches 2021

Olive trees are an important part of Palestinian food, culture and heritage.

They are looked after with love and appreciation.

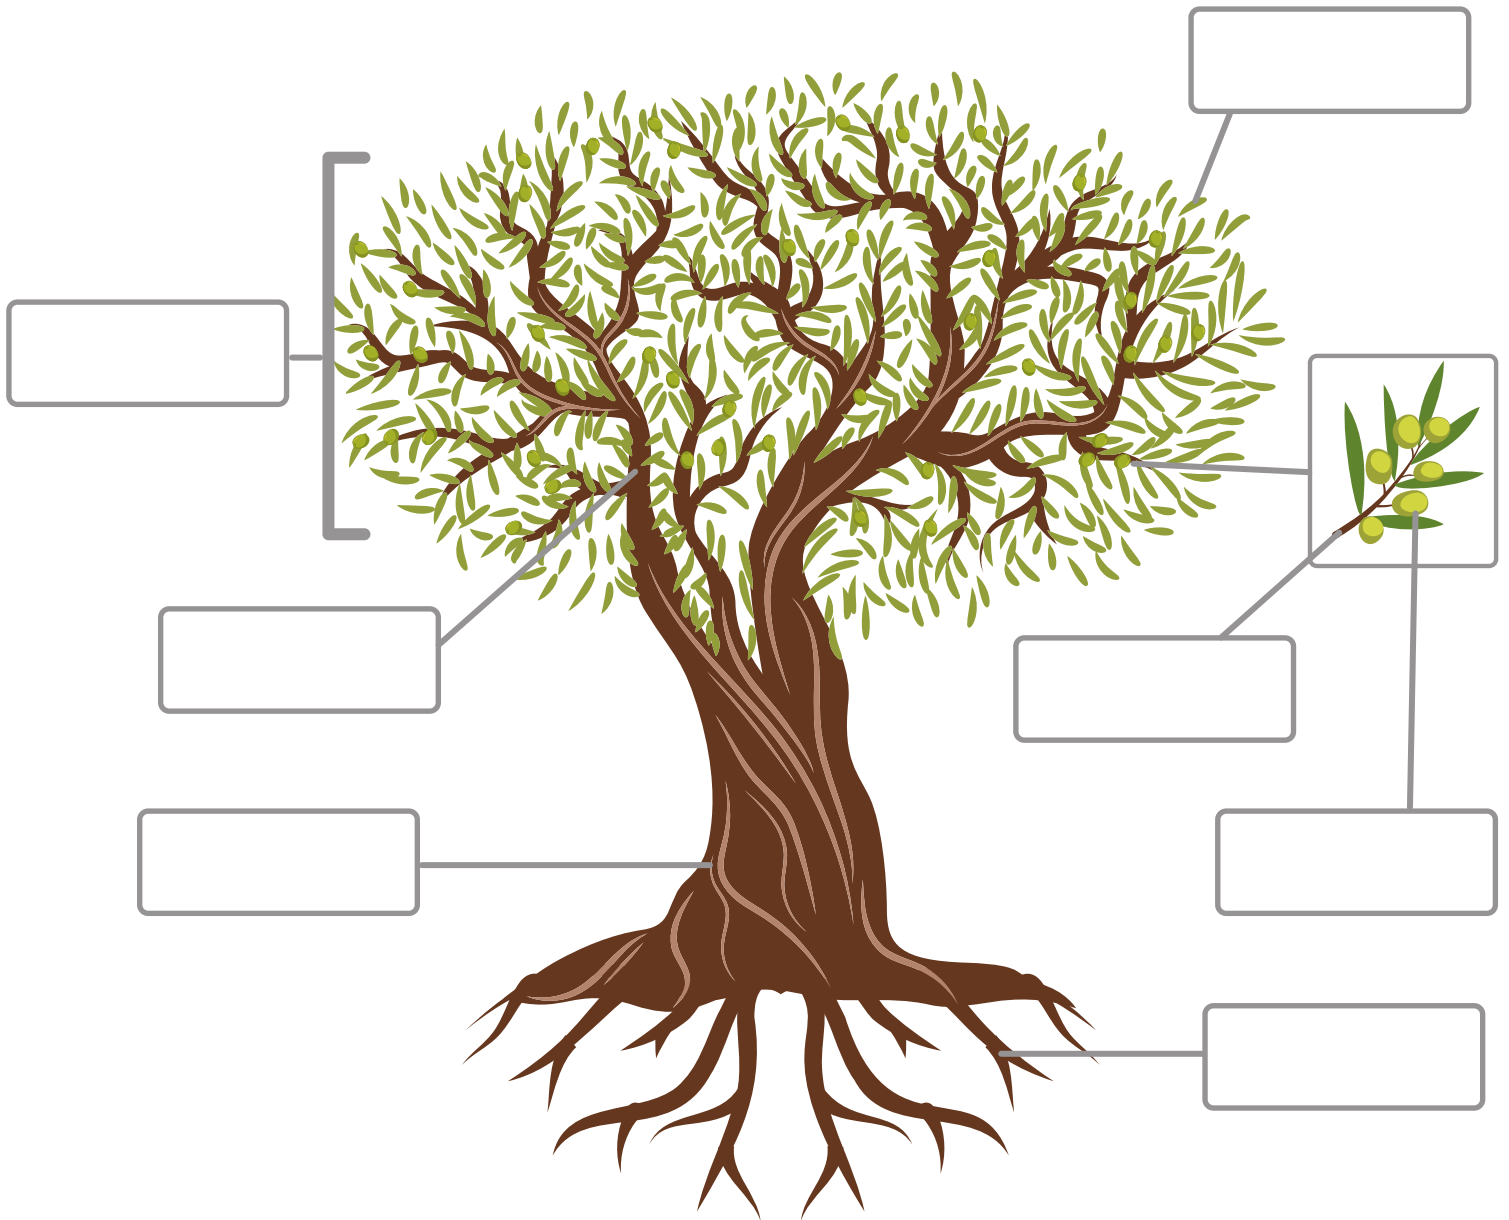

For Palestinians, the olive tree symbolizes a connection to their land and holds a special place in their hearts.
